Figure 3: Example of the mesopelagic layers that move between day and night. The highest density of animals is displayed in red and the lowest density is shown in dark blue. The microscopic view from the SONAR on the CTD shows the individuals that live in these migrating layers.